Gertrude Morgan The wife of stage actor Henry Morgan (1796 – 1835) was an actress and manager of the London theatre Pantomime Theatre in the 19th century. Biography Gertrude Morgan was born in Bath, Somerset, to Elizabeth (née Yates) and William Morgan. She is believed to have been a stage-struck teenager who had already appeared in amateur theatricals before entering the profession, touring in English provinces before moving to London in 1815. She met Henry in 1818 and they were married in 1821. She became an actress and manager of the Pantomime Theatre at Leicester Place, Covent Garden, London. It was a new venture and initially ran with only four acts a night and at a low price. Husband Henry died suddenly in 1835 and left the theatre to her. She gave the lease to another theatre in the new theatre district at Leicester Square. She continued to run the Pantomime, hiring her own actresses including her daughter, Annie, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mary and Charles Rice. The company continued to play until 1845 when it was replaced by another theatre in the same area. Gertrude Morgan, described in one magazine as "dashing and handsome" became a highly popular actress. She was praised for her ability to
