Make your own personalized bills to fit your company It's wrapped in a stylish and intuitive interface which displays a ribbon menu, with all the functions neatly arranged in separate areas, for quick access. An important addition you have been the ability to secure the documents or the app with a password, to keep sensitive information away from prying eyes. To start, either import an existing file from the PC, by browsing its location, or create a new one from scratch, by selecting the paper type (letter, A4), template, and the corresponding measurement unit you use (inches, millimeters). Each example loads a different design, so, in order to know which one fits your needs, it's best to open all of them. Insert relevant information about products and taxes The elements can be moved anywhere within the document, deleted and edited at any given time, and duplicated as many times as necessary. To enter the data, double click on the component, and a separate basic editor is brought up. There you can pick the desired font type, size, color, and align the text to left, right, or center. Plus, items may be aligned based on the label and object, make all of them the same size, and space the details evenly. On the left side of the panel, the tool box shows various invoice categories, along with text, geometrical shapes, and specialized elements. Enter circles, lines, text boxes, and pictures In addition, the app lets you insert images and icons, in JPG, JPEG, PNG, BMP, and TIF formats. From the View menu, you are able to hide a few toolbars from sight, change the unit, fit the page to the pane, as well as zoom in and out, enable the grid, and switch
