Solve Germline BRCA1 or BRCA2 mutations in early onset breast cancer from northern Europe. There is an average of three to four mutations in the BRCA1 gene in families with breast cancer, and 2 to 4 in the BRCA2 gene. The aim of this study was to investigate the prevalence of the BRCA1 and BRCA2 genes mutations among familial breast cancers in Northern Sweden and to compare the molecular findings in patients with bilateral, triple negative, and familial cancers in order to identify those at high risk for germline mutations. A total of 39 cases were identified. Seventeen were BRCA1 positive and 22 were BRCA2 positive. Thirty-nine cases had a family history of breast cancer. Gait anomalies and/or a family history of ovarian cancer were found in 10 (26%) BRCA1 and 11 (50%) BRCA2-positive patients. Conventional karyotype analyses were carried out in 36 cases. Balanced rearrangements of unknown significance were present in 27 (75%) tumors, mainly in BRCA1-positive patients.
