With its layers, transparency features, numerous tools, and integration with other applications, Photoshop is a powerful tool for image editing. Photoshop CS2 is now available. Read that PDF for more details. What Photoshop Does Photoshop allows you to create, modify, and control digital images with various tools that are layered into Photoshop. The layers are placed on top of one another to create different effects and change the appearance of an image. Photoshop enables you to work with color, tone, and grayscale values and to modify colors. You can also control exposure, brightness, contrast, and contrast ratios. You can create a variety of photographs, art, and graphics; combine images; crop, retouch, and resize; and process color. You can combine multiple images into one, change the aspect ratio, or create a new image from an existing one. Understanding layers When you work with Photoshop, you use layers. Layers add complexity to a project by allowing you to place more than one layer on top of one another to add a new layer of complexity to the image. A single layer is just a picture. Photoshop has two types of layers: Layer and Photoshop layer. A layer is the top-most layer of an image. A Photoshop layer is a hidden layer, which you can access by using the View ► Visible command. You can then access the Photoshop layer by clicking it and then clicking Edit ► Clear All Layers. A separate layer is a picture. Figure 7-1 shows a single layer and a Photoshop layer. Figure 7-1: A single layer and a Photoshop layer. Creating a single image After you open a single image, you have the option of saving the image in a number of different formats. You can save it as a JPEG, TIFF, GIF, or BMP file. You can save it as a print-ready PDF, a JPEG file of a specified size, or a separate web file. You can always reopen the image in Photoshop. You can save your image to JPEG, TIFF, and GIF file formats in Photoshop. The JPEG file format is the best-quality option and enables you to retain high-quality, high-resolution images on a CD, floppy disk, or hard drive. JPEG files are the most widely used image format, and the quality of the file format depends on the original size of the image, the amount of compression the file receives,

Since it is a less demanding version of Photoshop, it will be easier for them to get started rather than wasting time learning the complex editing/visualizing features of Photoshop which may take weeks and months to learn. Common users have stated that Photoshop Elements is easier to learn and can be used easily without much of a learning curve. Learning to use and work with Photoshop Elements is also easy and takes no time at all. It does not take long before a user can do all the necessary editing and retouching for the required level. Q: Ruby with selenium I have a rails app running, which I am trying to automate using ruby/selenium. I am getting an error saying I am running out of memory and cannot continue, though I have plenty of ram, 4gb, 6gb, and 8gb. I have tried adding Java to rubies options, and I have set the maximum memory to X amount as well. I am not getting any errors when I run, they just run fine. I am using ruby -v in the command line to see if there are any errors, but there are none. I have also tried updating ruby to the latest version. Thanks for your help.

Q: How do I create a new class in a google chart? I am creating a Google Chart, where the x axis is Date, and the y axis is Sales. However I want to have the 'twelve hours' value at the bottom of the graph and the 'four hours' value at the top. So I am trying to 'create' the classes, but the chart is not rendering properly. This is the code I am using: google.load('visualization', '1.1', {'packages': ['corechart']}); google.setOnLoadCallback(drawChart); function drawChart() { var data = new google.visualization.DataTable();

data.addColumn('string', 'Time'); data.addColumn('number', 'Sales'); var hours = data.getColumnRange(0); hours.length = 2;
data.addRows([ ['6:00 am', 400], ['8:00 am', 420], ['10:00 am', 420], ['2:00 pm', 420], ['4:00 pm', 420], ['6:00 pm', 420] ]); var classes =
['sixHours', 'eightHours', 'tenHours', 'twoPM', 'fourPM']; data.addColumn('number', 'Sales 0'); data.addRows(getData()); var options = {
